Congress Organizes

- How and when does Congress convene?
- What are the roles of the presiding officers in the Senate and the House?
- What are the duties of party officers in Congress?
- How are committee chairmen chosen, and what is their role in the legislative process?

Congress Convenes

- Congress convenes every two years—on January 3 of every odd-numbered year.
- The House has formal organizational meetings at the beginning of each term to determine committee membership and standing officers.
- The Senate, because it is a continuous body, has fewer organizational issues to address at the start of each term.
- When Congress is organized, the President presents a State of the Union message to a joint session of Congress. This message, in which the President reports on the state of the nation as he sees it, is given annually.

The Presiding Officers

The Speaker of the House

- The Speaker of the House is the presiding officer of the House of Representatives and the acknowledged leader of the majority party.
- The Speaker's main duties revolve around presiding over and keeping order in the House.
- The Speaker names the members of all select and conference committees, and signs all bills and resolutions passed by the House.

The President of the Senate

- The job of president of the Senate is assigned by the Constitution to the Vice President.
- The president of the Senate has many of the same duties as the Speaker of the House, but cannot cast votes on legislation.
- The president pro tempore, the leader of the majority party, is elected from the Senate and serves in the Vice President's absence.

Party Officers

The Party Caucus

- The party caucus is a closed meeting of the members of each party in each house which deals with matters of party organization.

The Floor Leaders

- The floor leaders are party officers picked for their posts by their party colleagues.
- The party whips assist the floor leaders and serve as a liaison between the party's leadership and its rank-and-file members.

Committee Chairmen and Seniority Rule

Committee Chairmen

- The committee chairmen are the members who head the standing committees in each chamber of Congress.
- The chairman of each of these permanent committees is chosen from the majority party by the majority party caucus.

Seniority Rule

- The seniority rule, an unwritten custom, holds that the most important posts will be held by those party members with the longest records of service in Congress.
- The head of each committee is often the longest-serving member of the committee from the majority party.

Standing Committees

- Standing committees are permanent panels in Congress to which bills of similar nature could be sent.
- Most of the standing committees handle bills dealing with particular policy matters, such as veterans' affairs or foreign relations.
- The majority party always holds a majority of the seats on each committee (the lone exception being the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct).

The House Rules Committee and Select Committees

The House Rules Committee

- The Rules Committee decides whether and under what conditions the full House will consider a measure.
- This places great power in the Rules Committee, as it can speed, delay, or even prevent House action on a measure.

The Select Committees

- Select committees are panels established to handle a specific matter and usually exist for a limited time.
- Most select committees are formed to investigate a current matter.

Joint and Conference Committees

- A joint committee is one composed of members of both houses.
- Examples of joint committees include the Joint Economic Committee, the Joint Committee on Printing, and the Joint Committee on the Library of Congress
- A conference committee—a temporary, joint body—is created to iron out differences between bills passed by the House and Senate before they are sent to the President.

Section 2 Review

1. The House Rules Committee

- (a) establishes codes of conduct.
- (b) determines when and under what conditions the full House will consider a measure.
- (c) oversees the execution of bills once they are passed into law.
- (d) determines which members of the Senate may vote on a measure.

2. A conference committee is formed to

- (a) iron out differences in bills passed by the House and Senate before they are sent to the President.
- (b) hold press conferences.
- (c) appoint Supreme Court justices.
- (d) determine rules for debate.

How a Bill Becomes a Law: The House

- What are the first steps in introducing a new bill to the House?
- What happens to a bill once it enters a committee?
- How do House leaders schedule debate on a bill?
- What happens to a bill on the House floor?
- What is the final step in passing a bill in the House?

The First Steps

- A bill is a proposed law presented to the House or Senate for consideration.
- A bill or resolution usually deals with a single matter, but sometimes a riders dealing with an unrelated matter is included.
- The clerk of the House numbers each bill, gives it a short title, and enters it into the House Journal and the Congressional Record for the day. With these actions the bill has received its first reading.

Types of Bills and Resolutions

Types of Bills and Resolutions
BILL	A proposed law or draft of a law; public bill applies to the entire nation; private bill applies only to certain people or places
JOINT RESOLUTION	A proposal for action that has the force of law when passed; usually deals with special circumstances or temporary matters
CONCURRENT RESOLUTION	A statement of position on an issue used by the House and Senate acting jointly; does not have the force of law; does not require the President's signature
RESOLUTION	A measure relating to the business of either house or expressing an opinion on a matter; does not have the force of law; does not require the President's signature

The Bill in Committee

Discharge Petitions

- Most bills die in committee, pigeonholed, or put away, never to be acted upon.
- If a committee pigeonholes a bill that a majority of the House wishes to consider, it can be brought out of committee via a discharge petition.

Gathering Information

- Most committees do their work through several subcommittees—divisions of existing committees formed to address specific issues.
- Committees and subcommittees often hold public hearings or make a junket (trip) to gather information relating to a measure.

Committee Actions

When a subcommittee has completed its work on a bill, it returns to the full committee. The full committee may do one of several things:

1. Report the bill favorably, with a “do pass” recommendation.
2. Refuse to report the bill.	3. Report the bill in amended form.
4. Report the bill with unfavorable recommendation.	5. Report a committee bill.

Scheduling Floor Debate

- A bill is placed into one of five calendars before going to the floor for consideration:
  1. The Calendar of the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union
  2. The House Calendar
  3. The Calendar of the Committee of the Whole House
  4. The Consent Calendar
  5. The Discharge Calendar
- Before most measures can be taken from a calendar, the Rules Committee must approve that step and set a time for its appearance on the floor.

The Bill on the Floor

Committee of the Whole

- The Committee of the Whole includes all members of the House, however, they sit as one large committee and not as the House itself.
- When the Committee of the Whole resolves itself, the Speaker steps down and another member presides. General debate follows.

Debate

- Severe limits are placed on floor debate due to the House's large size.
- Majority and minority floor leaders generally decide in advance how they will split the time to be spent on a bill.

Voting on a Bill

There are four methods of taking a floor vote in the House:

1. During voice votes the Speaker calls for the “ayes” and then the “noes.”	2. In a standing vote, members in favor of for and then those opposed to the bill rise and then are counted by the clerk.
3. One fifth of a quorum can demand a teller vote, in which the Speaker names two tellers, for and against, and members pass by each one to be counted.	4. A roll-call vote may be demanded by one fifth of the members present.

Once a bill has been approved at second reading, it is engrossed, or printed in its final form. It is then read for a third time and a final vote is taken.

Section 3 Review

1. Riders are

- (a) measures attached to a bill dealing with an unrelated matter.
- (b) bills dealing with transportation matters only.
- (c) measures included in a bill that are unconstitutional.
- (d) none of the above.

2. All of the following are options for committees to take once they have finished reviewing a bill EXCEPT

- (a) refusing to report the bill.
- (b) reporting a bill in amended form.
- (c) reporting a committee bill.
- (d) passing the bill into law.

The Bill in the Senate

- How is a bill introduced in the Senate?
- How do the Senate's rules for debate differ from those in the House?
- What is the role of conference committees in the legislative process?
- What actions can the President take after both houses have passed a bill?

Introducing a Bill and Rules for Debate

Introducing a Bill

- Bills are introduced by senators, who are formally recognized for that purpose.
- Proceedings are much less formal in the Senate compared to the House.

Rules for Debate

- The major differences between House and Senate rules regard debate over measures.
- As a general matter, senators may speak on the floor for as long as they wish.
- This freedom of debate allows for the fullest possible discussion of matters on the floor.

Filibuster and Cloture

Filibuster

- A filibuster is an attempt to “talk a bill to death.”
- A senator may exercise his or her right of holding the floor as long as necessary, and in essence talk until a measure is dropped.

The Cloture Rule

- Rule XXII in the Standing Rules of the Senate deals with cloture, or limiting debate
- If at least 60 senators vote for cloture, no more than another 30 hours may be spent on debate, forcing a vote on a bill.

Conference Committees

- Any measure enacted by Congress must have been passed by both houses in identical form.
- If one of the houses will not accept the other's version of a bill, a conference committee is formed to iron out the differences.
- Once a conference committee completes work on a bill, it is returned to both houses for final approval. It must be accepted or rejected without amendment.

The President Acts

The Constitution provides four options for the President when he receives a bill:

1. The President may sign the bill, and it then becomes law.

2. The President may veto the bill, or refuse to sign it. The President's veto can be overridden by a two-thirds vote of the members present in each house.

3. If the President does not act upon a bill within 10 days of receiving it, it becomes law.

4. A pocket veto occurs if Congress adjourns within 10 days of submitting a bill and the President does not sign it. The bill then dies.

Section 4 Review

1. A filibuster is

- (a) a tool used by senators to speed up the process of passing legislation.
- (b) the name for a bill once it is signed into law.
- (c) a delay tactic in which a bill is talked to death.
- (d) an executive privilege that allows for the amending of passed bills.

2. All of the following are options for the President for dealing with a bill once he receives it EXCEPT

- (a) allowing it to become law by not acting upon it for 10 days.
- (b) signing the bill into law.
- (c) altering the bill and signing it into law.
- (d) vetoing the bill.
